The Death of General Thomas.

The loss of few men in the country would have occasioned more sincere and general sorrow than that of General Thomas He united in his character and his history, extraordinary claims to public esteem, and the admiration felt for the great soldier was only surpassed by the love entertained for the man He was great without pretension, without ambition His highest aim was to do his duty, and his greatest glory was to serve his country Had he lived he might have reached the highest office the country could bestow He resembled Washington more than any of the great Captains whom our civil war developed and brought into conspicuous action and fame The leading traits in his character were a slow, but almost faultless judgment, an inflexible resolution, fidelity to duty always, and a moral character without vice or flaw He was loved with rare devotion, by the rank and file of the army, and trusted without bounds by his military superiors, by the Government and by his brother officers. In a word, he was a model soldier of the Republic, one of its brightest jewels, and his name will shine through our annals, with undiminished luster, as long as the story of the great war for the preservation of the Union shall be called to mind. The following is a sketch of his career He was born in Southampton county, Virginia, in 1816 He graduated at West Point in 1840, was assigned to a Second Lieutenantcy in the Third Artillery, joined his regiment in Florida, and after a year's participation in the duties and dangers of that service, was breveted (November 6, 1841) First Lieutenant, "for gallant conduct." In the Mexican war he won fresh laurels He participated in the successful defense of Fort Brown contributed to the victory at Resaca de la Palma, and for gallantry at the battle of Monterey was breveted Captain At the battle of Buena Vista he exhibited the most distinguished courage, which won for him the encomiums of his chief and the brevet rank of Major Previous to the breaking out of the rebellion he was engaged in important explorations on the head waters of the Canadian and Red rivers, and had frequent encounters with the Indians, in one of which he was wounded When the rebell on began in April, 1861, Major Thomas was one of the few Southerners who maintained their allegiance to the flag and was ordered to Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, to command and refit his regiment, which had during the previous November been dismounted and ordered out of Texas by the traitor Twiggs. On the 17th of August he was made a Brigadier General of volunteers, and was ordered to the Department of the Cumberland After the defeat of Zollicoffer he organized at Lebanon, the First Division of the Army of the Cumberland, and routed the rebels at Mill Spring, Kentucky, January 10th, 1862 In that year he was confirmed Major General of Volunteers, and his division transferred to the Army of the Tennessee Participating with that army in the siege of Corinth, he was subsequently re-transferred to his old army and placed in command of Nashville On the 12th of June of that year, he overtook Buell near Cave City, and was immediately made second in command of the army, holding the position during the whole of the rapid and exciting pursuit of Bragg's forces out of Kentucky During the series of contests at Stone river, December 31st, 1862 to January 4th, 1863, which resulted in the flight of Bragg's rebel army from Murfreesboro, Thomas held the advance with a spirit which elicited from General Rosecrans, in his official report, the praise of "being true and prudent, distinguished in council, and on many battle fields celebrated by his courage."

In the brilliant strategic movements through Middle Tennessee, which compelled the rebels first to seek refuge in Chattanooga and then to abandon it, Thomas and his Fourteenth Army Corps bore a conspicuous part. He bore also the brunt of the terrible onset made by Bragg at Chickamauga, (September 20, 1863), in his desperate attack to win back this stronghold. When each flank of the Union army was swept back, and so completely routed that Rosecrans himself gave up the day as lost, Thomas resting his flanks on the sides of the mountain gap repulsed with terrible slaughter every attempt of the rebel hosts to force him from his position It is not too much to say that had it not been for the undaunted courage and extraordinary military ability of General Thomas on that eventful day of shifting, persistent and arduous conflict, Chattanooga, the results of the previous years labor of the army of the Cumberland and even the existence of that army would have been irretrievably lost On the 19th of October, 1863, General Thomas succeeded Rosecrans in the chief command of the Army of the Cumberland and was made a Brigadier General in the regular army for gallantry The charge at Mission Ridge, the exploits at Buzzard's Roost, Resaca, Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain, Jonesboro, added new lustre to the reputation of Thomas and his army But the crowning glory of all was achieved in the great battle of Nashville, in which Thomas almost annihilated Hood's army and purged Tennessee of rebels. The great battle showed for results 10,000 rebels killed and wounded, 13,189 prisoners, 2,207 deserters, 80 cannon with gun carriages and caissons, 3,079 small arms, and numbers of battle flags In January, 1865, General Thomas received a well merited promotion to the rank of Major General in the regular army He was appointed commander of the Military Division of the Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia and Alabama, and in this difficult position he administered the affairs of the district with singular skill, prudence and patriotism

Judge Davis' Naturalization Bill

The New York Journal of Commerce, a Conservative paper with decidedly Democratic tendencies, is unexpectedly favorably in its comments on the Naturalization Bill introduced by Mr Davis. Of course the Journal of Commerce could not miss the chance to say its say against enfranchisement of the negroes, but otherwise its comments on the bill are such as will be quite generally endorsed by Republicans. We quote as follows

Judge Davis' Naturalization bill is, in some respects, an improvement upon the present code. As a whole, it is better than any other bill of the kind introduced into Congress this session The suggested reduction of the probationary term is right. Any man fit for citizenship at all, is as likely to be qualified for that assumption of mingled privileges and duties (the latter unpleasantly preponderating of late years) at the end of three years and six months as at that of five years We hardly think that the reduction of the term proposed by Judge Davis will meet with the approbation of Congress—the majority in both Houses being averse to the political risks of letting in foreign voters more easily than they are now permitted to come The same remark applies to the abolition of the restriction requiring a preliminary three years notice of the intention to become a citizen. Under the Davis bill it will only be necessary to give notice of intention any time previous to the first day of the court at which application is made, and that court passes upon the whole question. This would relieve the applicant of some of the bother that he now has to undergo The proofs required as to the good moral character of the applicant his attachment to the principles of the Constitution &c are more particular and stringent than those of the present naturalization laws, but the difference is not worth quarreling about. It is only proper that some evidence should be produced of the moral worthiness of persons desiring to become citizens In places however all these regulations are empty formalities Any foreigner who has acquaintances in this country has no difficulty in bringing out witnesses to demonstrate his eligibility to citizenship on any grounds An educational test is the only one that could not easily be got over but it is useless for any one to propose that in the present humor of the public which throws open the right of suffrage to myriads of densely ignorant blacks at the South

If the radical party were consistent and sincere in their professed reverence for the principles of manhood suffrage they would reduce still further if they did not abolish, the probationary term imposed upon foreigners. There is no doubt that ship loads of Irish and Germans landed here are on their arrival fully as well informed about the principles of republican government and the obligations of good citizenship, as hundreds of thousands of the Southern negroes are and we think might be as safely trusted to vote at the election next succeeding after renouncing allegiance to foreign princes and taking the constitutional oath If the Republicans were sure of the votes of newly landed foreigners as they are not they probably would not hesitate to pass them to citizenship at once Our position which is not that of a partisan, on the naturalization question is this—that the tests for admission to suffrage should be that of qualification rather than that of residence The latter determines nothing But since the test we would desire is not applied to persons born in this country it would be obviously unfair to subject foreigners to it We hold that the term of probation might properly be reduced say to one year, without injury to the interests of the country Intelligent foreigners worthy to participate in elections would be as well qualified to vote at the end of that time as at the end of three years and six months or five years, and the same may be said of the more ignorant classes of immigrants Immigration is so great a boon for the United States that we should strain a point to encourage it by every means not clearly inconsistent with the true interests of the republic

The Fifteenth Amendment—Proclamation by the President

WASHINGTON, March 30

To the Senate and House of Representatives

It is unusual to notify the two Houses of Congress by message of the promulgation by proclamation of the Secretary of State of the ratification of a constitutional amendment. In view, however, of the vast importance of the Fifteenth Amendment of the Constitution, this day declared a part of that instrument I deem a departure from the usual custom justifiable A measure which makes at once four millions of people voters, who were before declared by the highest tribunal in the land not citizens of the country not eligible to become so with the assertion that at the time of the Declaration of Independence the opinion was fixed and universal in the civilized portion of the white race and regarded as an axiom in morals as well as in politics that black men had no rights which white men were bound to respect is indeed a measure of great importance than any other one act of the kind from the foundation of our government to the present time Institutions like ours in which all power is derived directly from the people must depend mainly upon the intelligence patriotism and industry I call the attention therefore of the newly enfranchised race to the importance of their striving in every legitimate manner to make themselves worthy of the new privilege To the race more favored heretofore by our laws I would say, withhold no legal privilege of advancement to the new citizens The framers of our Constitution firmly believed that a republican form of government could not endure without intelligence and education generally diffused among the people The "Father of his Country, in his Farewell Address uses this language Promote then as an matter of primary importance institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge In proportion as the structure of the Government gives force to public opinion it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened In his first annual message to Congress the same views were presented and are again urged in his eighth message I repeat that the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution completes the greatest civil change and constitutes the most important event that has occurred since the nation came into life This change will be beneficial in proportion to the heed that is given to the urgent recommendations of Washington It these recommendations were important then with a population of but a few millions how much more important now with a population of forty millions and increasing in a rapid ratio I would therefore call upon Congress to take all means within their constitutional power to promote and encourage popular education throughout the country and upon the people everywhere to see to it that all who possess and exercise political rights shall have the opportunity to acquire knowledge which will make their share in the government a blessing not a danger By such means only can the benefits contemplated by this amendment to the Constitution be secured

Last year we had an importation of gold, attended with a great flourish but for every million dollars of gold imported there was $10 000 000 gold sold short in the Gold Room The sequal last year showed that the Gold Room made a mistake and in the end was richer by experience but poorer in cash There is no disposition in the Gold Room to repeat the experience of last year, and hence this importation failed to influence the market to-day

BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

No 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK

February 15th 1870

The remarkable success which attended our negotiations of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the popularity in Europe which these Loans have maintained in the markets both in this country and Europe have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most valuable safe and lucrative form of investment yielding more liberal income than can be derived from Government Bonds and yet equally safe

Assured that the results achieved in the negotiation of our previous Railroad Loans have made for us a great public name and built up a reputation for fair dealing and honorable business methods which will be a great and lasting source of strength and success to the Company we represent, we now offer the Bonds of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company with the confidence of investors—we now offer the Bonds of this Company at the current price of the day

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

OF THE

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad connecting the Atlantic seaboard at the great city of Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio river at a point of navigable water and thence through the Ohio and Kentucky valleys on the other

The Importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea may be inferred from the fact that it will be the most direct and shortest route, and will enable the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia to possess double the value they now do to the citizens of large and profitable markets

The Bonds are made payable in gold, but we do not think it probable that the completion of the Chesapeake and Ohio River and the extension of the Road to the Ohio River will be the most important railroad enterprise now in progress in this country.

Its superiority as an East and West route in all the promises of an immense and profitable business, its completion being in the intention and expectation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of the City of Boston, Management known and great wealth connected on all together with that of eminent statesmen and business men of Virginia and West Virginia makes it a energetic, honorable, and successful enterprise.

The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia a distance of miles and the remainder, 200 miles (now partially graded) to be completed to Gauley and the proposed line to Huntington on the Ohio river at or near Point Pleasant, the terminus of the Ohio River Railroad, giving a direct and shortest route from the Atlantic Seaboard to the Ohio River, Sandy River 150 miles above Cincinnati and 300 miles below Pittsburg.

Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.

Every dollar of the Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith

A SINKING FUND OF $100 000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD

The mortgage is for $15 000 000 of which $10 000 000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO

Of the remaining $15 000 000 sufficient amount will be used to complete the portion now in operation and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and active trade

The present price is 90 and accrued interest.

A Loan so amply secured so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the markets both of this Country and Europe will be a ready appreciated and quickly absorbed

Very respectfully

FISK & HATCH,

Bankers.

P S—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars statistical details maps etc which will be furnished upon application

We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 1marlawSm

Owing to the large and increasing demand for the Roberts' Torpedoes, and the late decision of the Commissioner of Patents in refusing to Wm. Reed a patent, and the decision of Judge R. C. Grier sustaining the Roberts' patent they have LOWERED the price of their Torpedoes so that every Operator can afford to try a Torpedo before abandoning a Well.

Twenty per Cent,,

The following is the decision referred to Judge Grier on the twenty second (22d) day of September, 1869, in the United States Circuit Court in Philadelphia The case was argued three day by Charles M Reed of New York B F Lucas and S A Purviance of Pittsburgh, for defendants and George Harding of Philadelphia and George H Christy, of Pittsburgh for plaintiff

OPINION OF JUDGE GRIER.

As I rule with difficulty I can only state the conclusions to which my mind has come after a careful examination of this case

The complainant has exhibited a patent dated 25th April, 1865 This is prima facie evidence of a good title and puts on the respondents the burden of proof that the patent is void or worthless

I need not repeat my remarks in the case of Goodyear vs Day (2 Wall C C Rep 299) but now adopt them as affording a rule of decision which applies clearly to the present case

As the infringement of the patent is admitted the only question will be as to the validity of complainant's patent of April 25 1865

It was after speculation had been reduced to practice, and after repeated experi

The Free Pipe Bill has passed the House of Representatives and is now pending before the Senate

A strong opposition to its passage is said to exist endangering the success of the bill

It is necessary that all who are interested in the cheap transportation of oil at regular and uniform rates unite in presenting to the Senate their petitions for the passage of the bill with the reasons which support the petitions

Immediate and earnest action is necessary to save this important measure from defeat

A meeting of oil men both Producers and Shippers is called to be held at Oil City on Friday April 1st in Library Hall at ten o'clock A M, to adopt such measures as the occasion requires

A full attendance is desired

WM BROUGH
President Oil Producers Association

SETH GREEN, the great piscatorial authority of this country has lately delivered his mind but on Lake fish on several points interesting to the sportsman and the epicure He recounts for there being a more plentiful supply of fish some years more than others He says if there is so my windy weather in the fall and winter enough to keep the water roily a good deal of the time the spawn would get covered with sediment and three or four years from that time fish would be scarce The same reasons will follow with all kinds of fish The cause of fresh fish not being as large now as in old times is, that by using a smaller mesh in nets they are caught one year younger and of course they are not so large

He accounts for the decrease from the face of the great improvements made in shipping facilities and too much fishing during the young time of the year that is the spawning season The spawning grounds of Lake Ontario are stony bars, in from ten to forty feet of water They are anywhere where there are springs coming up whether in sandy or stony There the more springs at the bottom of our lakes and streams than on land, and very small which but do not water spring Which is best for table during the months of March April May June July August and September In the months of October they begin to prepare to spawn commencing spawning the last of October and are done the forepart of December They need about two months to recruit after spawning

As to the age of the white fish he thinks he is a mature four year old and in old time lived to the ripe old age of 12 to 15 year But now days they are done before they reach half that age He thinks the herring are the spawning season for white fish in Lake Ontario from October 20th to November 10th Dr Rathbun says October 20th to Nov 20th and in Geneva Lake from Nov 20th to Dec 10th

THE Greensburg Herald says That portion of the Western Pennsylvania coal which is being worked on the Youghiogheny river on the waters of Connellsville, it may not be generally known is perhaps the most productive of any in the country Thus is certainly true in regard to depth of seam and richness of coking properties I have remember right some veins in that vicinity are eight and nine feet thick We found old coke ladle where else that produced so fine a quality of that fuel It does seem from that vicinity are some of the extent and number of coke veins now in operation in the region immediately on the line of the Pittsburg and Connellsville Railroad There a reliable decided statement published of the product of the month of February we find that there were on compromises producing 921 1000 bushels of coke And this business now considered only begun When that road shall have been completed through and an outlet market opened to Baltimore direct and other points on the seaboard by the shortest route what will now that trade grow to in extent

IT is worthy of note that the Tarr farm flats are to be restocked again by W M Thompson Esq of Erie City Pa at a cost of over sixty thousand (60 000) dollars Mr Thompson's wells are now running and two more in readiness to start Two of the wells are doing thirty barrels each daily some of the others have just commenced pumping and there is every prospect that when the water is exhausted the Tarr farm flats will be alive once more after having been abandoned as worthless for over three years Mr Thompson's energy and perseverance are certainly deserving of success

LOCAL LEGISLATION—In another column will be found a bill regulating medical practice passed by the Legislature last year and copy of a bill applying its provisions to Crawford Erie and Venango counties which Mr Ames introduced has been approved by the Governor and is now a law

SPAWN TO BE SUPERSEDED BY ELECTRICITY—The New York correspondent of the Boston Journal describes a new invention for replacing steam by electricity and says that lathes planing machines and other mechanical arrangements are driven by the power To run an engine of twenty horse power by this invention would require only a space of three feet long two feet wide and two feet high The cost per day would be thirty five cents On a township no engine would require a larger space now used for cooking purposes It would seem no cargo for a floor is since of economic to [illegible] It is believed that the discovery will be secured and other difficulties removed by the application of the coil of the magnet If the invention works as well on the large scale as it does on the machinery to which it is now applied steamships will soon pass the ocean under the new propelling power A machine of great capacity is being constructed and will soon be on exhibit in New York The wheel being mighty enough to carry a Cunarder to Liverpool can be secured in a small trunk

NEW STORE—M. Coors—We respectfully inform our customers and the public at large, that we have removed to the new and commodious store in the Chase & Stewart Block on Franklin street where we are ready to show a stock of goods never equalled in the Oil Regions in style quality and prices We will open our doors for business to day at noon

ANSWER TO "IF WE BUT KNEW"

BY E L W

Ah! we do know that o'er the mystic stream
Whose music lulls life's pains to sleep
There cometh many a vision and dream
To comfort those who mourn and weep

The light that falls upon a dying face
From unseen stars in death's dim night,
Reveals unto the soul its resting place
When passing from our mortal sight

And smiles that linger on the lips so sweet
When they have ceased to speak on earth
Are soft responses to the friends they meet
When from the trance of second birth

They wake and glide into the light
Which melts their spirit being through
Revealing to attendant angels sight
All they have been and are to do

No flaming glance of wrath personified
Doth break death's silence with thunderous roar
But white winged ships on ether ocean glide
To find for all a friendly shore

And our dear Loves which found a lodgment
In human forms till death set free
Are off to earth by our good Father sent
Ling'ring at peace and parity

And we forget our caskets in collapsing
When they return our Jewels rare
Like spotless snow flakes from golden fringed clouds
That drop still music through the air

And many a dear token too is brought
Across that starry upper sea,
That speaks of deathless love and wise sweet thoughts
Teaching us immortality

O Heaven hath more pity than we dream
And taketh thought of all below
Life's darkest features are not what they seem
And God is better than we know

The Coal Trade.

There is still a general suspension of labor in the collieries in the Schuylkill region The operators say they cannot afford to carry on work according to the last year basis and the miners have thus far refused to go to work at the terms proposed by the operators The Miners Journal urges the importance of a compromise between the two parties which shall enable work to be resumed and endeavors to convince the workmen that their present course will in the end, result very disastrously to themselves The Schuylkill county operators labor under disadvantages in regard to forwarding their coal to New York when compared to not only those of the Lehigh Wyoming and Luckawanna regions, and Schuylkill therefore cannot compete with the other mining regions upon equal terms With the collieries in the competing regions idle as they were last summer the Schuylkill operators can mine coal to good advantage at good prices for labor but they cannot pay the same prices for mining which the large companies in this region can pay and sell at the same prices at New York The Journal tells the Schuylkill coal miners that they must confront the peculiarities and necessities of the trade in that region, and that the only way in which the operators there can keep at work is by paying prices for work which will enable them to compete successfully with the competitors from the other regions

AMERICAN SILVER IN CANADA—While greenbacks were so greatly depreciated large amounts of our silver coin found its way to Canada, where the financial status was such that hard money could be used So extensive was its influx to the Dominion, that it glutted the market, and finally came to rate at four or five per cent discount as compared with gold The appreciation of our currency has rendered the circulation of specie again probable and caused our stray silver coin to be called back the result of which is that it has come to stand nearly on a par with gold in the Dominion This blocks a little game which has long been practiced by manufacturers builders and other employers of men in Canada who were in the habit of buying American silver at the discount and paying the men hands with it the practice of paying by the day being general in order that the petty fraud on workingmen should not be too obvious By this means some large establishments have saved several thousand dollars a year but their harvest from this field will be over if greenbacks continue to appreciate

FOX HUNT IN CLARION COUNTY—A correspondent of the Clarion Democrat thus describes a fox hunt which recently came off at Shannondale, in that county

The line was well represented from all points, except Troy and Corsica, there was not a man out to represent them that we know of Suppose the reason for not turning out on that portion of the line is partly, because they supposed it would terminate like the hunt they had in their vicinity several years ago When they closed the ring, there was about 50 dogs in the circle and not one fox No wonder they were discouraged! Had they turned out, it would have been quite a disappointment to them, for they had at least 50 foxes roated and had 15 or 20 inside of first straw circle, but all escaped out of the northern part of the circle, where we had nothing to stop them Had that portion of the line turned out it would have been a complete success When it was discovered there was no line formed on the north, the men scattered out and tried to get the circle connected but the frightened foxes were too fast for them and made good their escape Rules were well observed except when nearing centre, they traveled too much in groups but when they got to straw line they scattered out There was between 400 and 500 gathered into centre and greeted us with music of almost every variety The hunt terminated pleasantly every one present being satisfied, might have had game plenty had it not been for the failure of northern part of line &c

Shaffner vs. Mowbray.

NEW YORK March 24 1870

Editors Morning Herald

Mr Mowbray states in his advertisement headed Nitro Glycerine Suits viz On the afternoon of the 28th February Col P Shaffner came to Room 4 Monongahela House and stated the motion for injunction would be withdrawn in the nitro glycerine suits

The above is untrue— complete fabrication At the request of Mr Baldwin I spoke to Mr Black counsel for Mowbray about a book and he invited me to his room to get it At the same time I felt him that as Mr Keller had left quite ill and under the impression that my suits would be postponed until the May term I had advised my counsel to consent to the postponement When Mr Pratt entered his room No 43 he said Gentlemen Col Shaffner has consented to postpone the nitro glycerine cases until the May term I did not speak upon the subject Mowbray and several gentlemen were in the room

Mr Pratt one of Mowbray's witnesses told me that morning that his friend was very ill and that he was anxious to go home Under that impression and considering Mr Keller's departure on account of illness I consented to the postponement After the month Mr Mowbray or his counsel states will ever reach the Examiner I put it up to them
